Meet Lindsay Pumpa

Founder & Interior Designer
Luxury Guide Design Curator

Known throughout South Florida for her distinctive approach to modern interiors, Lindsay Pumpa has built a reputation for creating sophisticated spaces that blend unexpected finishes, layered textures, and striking contemporary aesthetics. Her signature philosophy—what she calls “Liveable Modern”—balances elevated design with the warmth, comfort, and functionality that make a house truly feel like home.

As the founder of L.Pumpa Designs, established in 2013, Lindsay specializes in custom residential interior design for discerning South Florida clients. Her portfolio spans everything from sleek urban residences in Miami’s vibrant downtown districts to expansive waterfront estate homes throughout the region’s exclusive island communities. Recognized for her forward-thinking design perspective, meticulous attention to detail, and refined artistic vision, Lindsay quickly emerged as a respected force within the luxury design industry.

Prior to launching her own firm, Lindsay served as Lead Designer for an international design company, where she honed her contemporary aesthetic and developed a reputation for creating interiors that feel both polished and approachable. Her talent and innovative eye ultimately led to her selection as Lead Interior Designer for HGTV's annual Urban Oasis series in Miami in 2012, where she continued with the celebrated program for the following three years.

Originally born in Houston, Texas, and raised in Solon, Ohio, Lindsay credits her family for encouraging her creativity and artistic ambitions from an early age. She later relocated to Florida to attend Florida State University, earning a Bachelor of Science degree in Interior Design before officially entering the design industry in 2008. Today, she considers Miami's vibrant architecture, culture, and energy a constant source of inspiration behind her evolving creative vision.
